Prizewinning pupils get to the art of the matter

HOLY moley – a Wood Green secondary school has had an almighty success brushing aside the competition in a religious-themed painting contest, with four students winning prizes.

The pupils from St Thomas More school in Glendale Avenue, scooped four awards in the Easter Triduum Art competition, with one of them taking the top prize.

The achievement was all the more remarkable because the competition is open to Roman Catholic schools in the church's Westminster diocese, which covers much of north London and Hertfordshire.

Contestants had to paint their interpretation of one of the days from the Triduum – the period in the scriptures spanning The Last Supper, Christ's crucifixion and his resurrection.

Year 7 pupil Sofia Petruzelli won first place overall and was presented with a £75 voucher at a school assembly by Roddy Beare, a representative from the Knights of St Columba, a Catholic organisation which runs the annual competition.

Year 8 student Marianne Chabaaan was presented with a £50 voucher after she came second in the group one category and fellow year 8 pupil Christina Mikeli received a £25 voucher after taking third place in the same category.

Mr Beare also presented year 10 student Sara Chrusciel with the Province prize.

Headteacher Martin Tissot said: "The school is delighted with the pupils' success which reflects in the strong Catholic ethos of the school and the wonderful work pupils produce in the art department."

RENEWED APPEAL IN SEARCH FOR WOMAN

Ana, 24, vanished two years ago

POLICE have appealed for the public's help to find a 24-year-old woman sex worker from Haringey – two years after she vanished without trace.

No contact or sightings have been made of Romanian-born Ana Lingurariu since she was reported missing to police in March 2015 by friends in London who had not seen her for several weeks. Officers from Camden made inquiries at the time.

It is believed that she worked in the sex industry in north London and lived at an address in Haringey.

Despite visits to numerous locations by police, there has been no trace of her. Inquiries with family members in her home village of Seciuri suggest that she has not returned to Romania.

Anyone who knows of Ana's whereabouts, or who may have seen her over the past two years, is asked to call the Central North missing persons unit on 020 8733 6543 or via 101.

You can also provide information to the charity Missing People on 116000.

No trace: Ana Lingurariu was reported missing to police in March 2015

Man who killed wife detained in hospital

A MAN has been sent to a secure mental hospital after he admitted killing his wife from whom he was living separately.

Somali national Bashir Ali, 42, stabbed Deeqa Ibrahim, 41, repeatedly after she visited the flat where he was staying, in Bramble Close, South Tottenham, on the evening of November 23 last year.

Deeqa, a Somali-born British national, had lived with Ali in Ealing, west London, until they split up in 2015.

Ambulance crews and police officers battled to save her life, but she was pronounced dead at the scene.

The couple's two sons and two daughters, aged between four and nine, lived with Deeqa at the time.

At the Old Bailey last Wednesday, Bashir was sentenced to a hospital order under the and a restriction order under the Mental Health Act 1983, having previously pleaded guilty to manslaughter on the grounds of diminished responsibility.

Vote for your top shop

RESIDENTS are being asked to cast their votes in an alternative ballot – to crown the annual winners of a competition to find the top retailers at Wood Green shopping mall.

Shoppers and residents can vote by picking up a form from the mall's Ask Me Point, or by visiting the centre's website, www.themall.co.uk/wood-green

The public, together with retailers and management at the shopping complex, can vote in a range of categories including customer service, cleanliness, quality and the overall shopping or dining experience.

Voting opened on Monday and voters have until Monday, June 26, to make their choice. The winners will be announced during an official presentation ceremony at the Grand Palace Banqueting Suite, in High Road, Wood Green, on Thursday, July 6.

Marchers protest at school funding cuts

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of parents joined a march last weekend to protest about cuts in school funding.

The noisy procession left Hazelwood Schools, in Palmers Green, at 11am on Saturday, travelled through Green Lanes and ended in Broomfield Park with a picnic.

Protesters say that current plans mean an eight per cent reduction in funding, with Hazelwood infant and junior schools, in Hazelwood Lane, which have about 650 pupils, set to lose the equivalent of eight teachers.

Campaigners have been protesting about cuts for several months and they say that independent studies suggest schools across the Enfield area will lose cash and teachers.

Labour's prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield Southgate Bambos Charalambous was on the march and Conservative candidate David Burrowes attended the picnic. Liberal Democrat and Green Party supporters also attended.

The Conservatives say they will increase education spending if they are re-elected on June 8 and earlier this year Mr Burrowes called for more money for schools.

The Tories' claim is disputed by the march organisers, who argue

On the march: Protesters on the streets of Palmers Green that research carried out by the Institute of Fiscal Studies, an independent research organisation, shows that schools will still lose seven per cent per pupil funding in real terms under election manifesto commitments.

March organiser Ruth Donaldson said: "We organised the march to give parents a voice and request that all the parties, and their representatives currently seeking election, protect the current per pupil funding levels.

"It went really well – we got about 280 on the march. We hope that by bringing parents together, our politicians will have no choice but to take our concerns seriously and act to protect funding for all our schools."

Road accidents leave two dead

TWO people died on Enfield's roads in the space of three days over the bank holiday weekend.

A 53-year-old man died crossing Hertford Road and the junction of Nightingale Road, Edmonton, at 9.25 on Monday night.

Two days earlier – at 2pm on Saturday – a motorcyclist in his 20s died after he was in collision with a car on the A10 Great Cambridge Road in Edmonton.

In Monday's fatality, involving the pedestrian, a 23-year-old car driver was arrested on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving and driving under the influence of drugs.

The driver of the car involved in the fatal accident on Saturday was also arrested by police. Flowers were laid in memory of the motorcyclist at the spot where he lost his life, pictured above.

Detectives from the Metropolitan Police's Roads and Transport Policing Command are investigating both accidents and are appealing for witnesses, who can contact the Collision Investigation Unit at Chadwell Heath on 020 8597 4874 or via Twitter @MetCC

Those magnificent men in their flying machines

RETRO style and vintage vehicles charmed thousands of visitors to a spectacular bank holiday show.

The annual Enfield Pageant of Motoring once again delighted everyone with its mix of entertainment and appreciation for classic cars dating back decades.

The three days of fun and games started on Saturday and included a fashion show and music as well as breathtaking daredevilry from the Stunt Monkey motorcycle display team.

Music was provided by the Galaxy Big Band, DJs and the Apple Blossoms, while polka-dotted 1950s' fashions were paraded and stall traders sold collectables.

Enfield and District Veteran Vehicle Society president Colin Spong, said: "It went very well, a good show. It was our 40th anniversary, which is quite a milestone for us. There was an excellent turnout – we had roughly 1,000 cars on show across the three days – with 45 classic car clubs turning up with their vehicles."

The event at Enfield Playing Fields is a fundraiser for Whitewebbs Museum of Transport, in Whitewebbs Road, Enfield.

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!! If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

- DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:
 - Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
 - Are they loose?
 - Do not cut food as well as they used to?
 - Do they make your face look older?
 - Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
 - Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

If you wish to discuss any denture related issues please do not hesitate to contact me on:

Kate Osamor – Labour

NORTH London-born Kate Osamor is a former NHS practice manager, a graduate of the University of East London and a mother of one.

"It has been the greatest honour of my life to represent you in parliament over the last two years. I am standing for re-election as Labour MP for Edmonton as I want to build a society that works for everyone. As your MP, I will stand up for our NHS, for our schools, and for our community. Over the last two years, I have fought to protect our NHS services. I campaigned against the threatened closure of North Middlesex Hospital A&E. This threatened closure was an example of the huge pressure facing our NHS. I held a public meeting, ran a petition and met with senior hospital staff, NHS England, the Health Secretary and other key stakeholders in order to keep the A&E open. Edmonton needs an MP who is prepared to fight to protect its public services. If re-elected as your local MP, I will fight for our NHS, for social care for Enfield's ageing population, and against funding cuts in our schools. Edmonton also needs a government that works for the many, not the few. Labour offers an alternative to the Tories' policies of austerity. Vote Labour on June 8."

Gonul Daniels – Conservative

SHE is a working mother who has lived in and around Edmonton. Her career is in digital technology and engineering. She worked at the Bank of England for 10 years and the Houses of Parliament for five years as well as in the private and public sector. She has a passion for education and campaigned for and created a free school with Ashmole Academy Trust.

"Edmonton needs change. With a Conservative government, I am the only candidate who can work in tandem with the government to deliver change for Edmonton. Theresa May and a Conservative government at a national level can provide the stability to enable that change. My five-point plan is based on improving the community and enabling residents to reach their aspirations for themselves and their families. My pledges for Edmonton will tackle major issues and will make Edmonton a better place to live and bring up families – stop knife crime, stamp out anti-social behaviour, clear the rubbish from our streets, give children an outstanding education and clear the pollution from our air."

Nigel Sussman – UKIP

A BUSINESS productivity consultant, helping companies achieve competitive advantage and that advantage through cutting-edge strategic innovation. He has 37 years' global experience in SME and FTSE 100 companies and in multiple industry sectors such as IT, finance, oil and gas, manufacturing, construction, legal, enforcement and telecoms. He has been married for 27 years to Barbara, his hobbies include chess and he has a cat called Lollipop.

"I will simply say that you have been failed by successive Labour and Tory representatives in Edmonton. If you do what you have always done, you will get what you have always got. I am no jobbing politician, I have the skills to make a real positive economic difference for the people of Edmonton and, unlike the others, I am listening to you. I ask you to vote for me because I care about Edmonton and all the people in it. You should vote for me because I am the only candidate who is a true Brexiteer, the only one committed to removing the outrageous cycle lane scheme and the only one that has "no whip". I am accountable to you, not my party."

Benjamin Gill – Green

HE lives and works in Enfield as a software engineer in the telecommunications sector. He came to Enfield in 2015, having studied physics at Cambridge University. He got tired of politics after the Brexit referendum and joined the Green Party to attempt to effect change.

"The UK is the fifth-largest economy. However, successive governments have failed too many – none should fear hunger or homelessness. We need MPs willing to stand up against the old politics and stand for a better, fairer future. Greens would seek to rebalance the economy, focusing on people and sustainability, not big business and polluters. We would ensure clean air, a properly-funded, public NHS and care system and a well-resourced schools. We will also stand up for renters – when you rent a home, you should feel at home. Brexit must not erode the protection of our rights and our environment. We will offer the electorate a real say on any final deal."

David Schmitz – Liberal Democrat

HE was born in the United States and has lived in London 40 years, working as a barrister. He has been a councillor in Tottenham and school governor. He lives in Tottenham in a former drug den he rebuilt after it burned down. He has two children and in his spare time he run marathons for charity.

"I'm a Liberal Democrat because it is the only party which is ambitious for social justice; sound on the environment; unflinching in supporting human rights; and economically responsible. We are the only party with a coherent policy to deal with Brexit. Labour is clueless about how to pay the bills – they forget that rich people can move away if taxes go up a lot. Gone are the days when they had their wealth in factories and rolling acres which could be easily grabbed. And see how the Tories are trying to undo what we made them do in government – our triple lock on pensions threatened, our green investment bank sold off, our free school lunches due for the chop, cuts to London schools... Need I say more?"

Which candidate should you vote for – and why?

VOTERS in the borough's three parliamentary constituencies go to the polls in just over a week's time to choose their MP. Here is the lowdown on the candidates and the issues.

Enfield North is where upsets could happen. It is one of the Conservative Party's target seats. A 1.8 per cent swing to the Tories would be enough to overturn Labour's slender majority.

Facing each other are familiar foes – Labour's Joan Ryan and Conservative Nick de Bois. She held the seat from 1997 until he took it from her in 2010, only for Ms Ryan to recapture it in 2015 with a 1,086-vote majority. Crime, education, housing and health are voters' main concerns with little evidence of Brexit being an issue on the doorstep.

The Enfield Southgate constituency has been a Tory stronghold since David Burrows took office in 2005.

In parliament he has helped introduce compulsory relationships education and mandatory sentences for knife crime – an issue that is surely at the forefront of voters' minds in the wake of the borough's recent knife crime attacks. But will he be as popular with the Remainers this time round?

As a staunch Brexit campaigner in the run-up to the European referendum last year that could put off some people.

The Edmonton constituency is regarded as safe Labour territory. In 2015, Kate Osamor romped to victory with a 15,419 majority, securing a 64 per cent share of the vote.

Will the Corbyn factor or Brexit have a bearing on the outcome this time round?

The constituency is in outer London, but has all the social deprivation of an inner-city seat. Law and order, the health service, schools and housing are the issues concerning residents living there.

David Flint – Green

HE has lived in Enfield for 28 years, is a chemistry graduate and a retired management consultant. He worked for the Post Office and then for several IT consultancies including one that he founded. He has written two books and lectured in many countries and is now a visiting fellow at the Cass Business School. He has two daughters and a grandson – all living in Enfield.

"The UK is a fractured society. We have billionaires and foodbanks, zero hour contracts and corporate tax evasion, polluted air and rising temperatures. But a better society is possible. We should end poverty by reversing the cruel benefit cuts and investing in new, green technologies. And to stop another financial crisis we must get control of our dysfunctional banking system. We need to protect the air, water and soil that feed us and nurture our spirits."

Pippa Morgan – Liberal Democrat

SHE is 31, grew up in South Manchester and studied at Cambridge University. She's a keen cyclist and walker. She was climbing a Lake District fell when the election was called. She is a big fan of audio books, especially Joanna Trollope.

"Talking to residents I've heard lots of concern about the school funding crisis and the NHS as well as the tragic rise in knife crime incidents locally. Education is my specialism. I run the education and skills team for a major UK business group, advising businesses and government departments on how the UK can have the best education and skills system – from child care to further education. The Conservatives' handling of Chase Farm Hospital – repeatedly making and then breaking promises – has been shocking. The NHS needs a new solution, so the Liberal Democrats have proposed a penny extra on income tax to give £6 billion more a year for the NHS and social care. For the past six years I've worked with a wide range of companies on what matters to their businesses and what will help them grow. That's going to be vital for the Brexit negotiations."

Bambos Charalambous – Labour

HE has lived in Enfield all his life and attended local state schools. He has been a councillor for Palmers Green for the past 23 years and is an associate cabinet member on Enfield Council. He is a governor at Eversley Primary School and St Michael at Bowes Junior School and is a solicitor specialising in housing law.

"The Brexit vote was a big disappointment for the majority of us in Enfield Southgate who voted Remain and we now face an uncertain future for our families, friends and communities. We need to stand up and challenge the Tories on what matters to us locally on Brexit, on education cuts, on the NHS, on housing and many other issues. Now more than ever we need someone who will stand up for our rights. I will fight for your right to have a decent standard of living, first-class health care, a better future for your children and security for your retirement. None of the other parties can beat the Tories locally. If you want to beat the Tories, vote for me."

David Burrows – Conservative

DAVID Burrows has been an MP in Enfield Southgate since 2005 and has lived here all his life. He has previously worked in Enfield as a solicitor. He is married to Janet, has six children ranging in age from ten to 19, and a dog Cholmeley. He is a committed Christian and speaks up for stronger relationships and families, and for the vulnerable like refugees, the disabled and the homeless.

"I am again standing for election to be MP for Enfield Southgate because I am still as passionate to serve my local area, which I love, as I was in 2005. As a parent of six children and school governor, I know the importance of good local schools. I will secure our manifesto pledge that 'no school has its budget cut as a result of the new formula' and to 'increase the overall schools budget by £4 billion by 2022, representing more than a real terms increase for every year of the parliament. Whether you voted Leave or Remain, you now need a strong Prime Minister to get the best Brexit deal."

Joan Ryan – Labour

ENFIELD North MP since 2015, as well as from 1997 to 2010. Before politics, she was a teacher for 14 years. She has lived in Enfield with her family for nearly 20 years, only ever standing for election to parliament in Enfield North.

"I've always defended Enfield's schools and health services, and supported the police. I promise to continue to stand up for you. As your MP, I made sure no services were cut at Chase Farm Hospital. But when we had a Conservative MP the cuts went ahead. Last year, I led the community campaign which saved North Middlesex Hospital's A&E from the threat of partial closure. It shows how a strong local MP makes a real difference, whichever party is in government. If you vote for me, I will defend children's education, demand more police to help us feel safe and fight to stop the Conservatives cutting cold weather payments for pensioners. I will always put Enfield first. I give you my word."

Nick de Bois – Conservative

HE ran a small business for 25 years before first representing Enfield North after the 2010 general election. He is married to Helen, who now works in the same business which he left when elected to parliament. His daughter is a doctor at a London hospital and his son serves in the Royal Artillery.

"I want to continue the work I started as your MP and once again be a strong voice for Enfield North. One of the issues that is most important locally is knife crime. That is why in 2012 I secured 'Enfield's Law', meaning jail for anyone caught carrying a knife. Safety is important, but so is opportunity for all. I previously used my business experience to create the Enfield Jobs Fair – bringing hundreds of job opportunities to local residents. Opportunity also means everyone has the chance for a good start in life. I know how vital our public services are in Enfield. By standing with Theresa May, I will be able to work with the government to deliver investment in housing, health, trains and good schools."

Deborah Cairns – UKIP

SHE has three children and five grandchildren, lives and work in Enfield and has done so for the last 23 years. Election priorities include no further building on green belt sites and crime reduction.

"UKIP is concerned about the building on green belt land near Trent Park for a school that was proposed by the Wren Academy. Lots of these new housing developments are being put forward because immigration is out of control. UKIP is committed to moving towards zero net migration over five years. There are also a lot of safety concerns for the new cycle lanes that have been put in place as well as a loss of business for Winchmore Hill. UKIP is committed to strong local representation and local referenda for controversial issues. There must be no backsliding on Brexit. Brexit must mean exit. We want to reduce foreign aid spending so that we will have more money to spend on the NHS. We are committed to increasing police, our armed services and our border patrols. We want to promote British culture and there must be one law for everyone."

Bill Linton – Greens

HE is a retired computer analyst/programmer. He has been a Green for 30 years and a campaigner for social causes for even longer. He led the successful campaign to make Enfield a Fairtrade borough and is secretary of the local branch of the United Nations Association and treasurer of Enfield Palestine Solidarity Campaign.

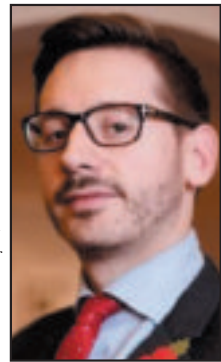

"Voters have had their fill of ideologically-driven austerity and the politics of fear and hate. It's time to bring back positivity: a society where community values rather than money rule decision-making, and where we regain the recognition that we are part of the natural world. A society built on trust rather than suspicion, on hope not hate. This election may be the last chance to reverse the slide in the opposite direction as the Tories are cynically changing the rules in their favour. It is surely the last chance to get a government serious about tackling climate change and the other environmental disasters that threaten us. Your vote counts – don't waste it."

Nicholas Da Costa – Liberal Democrat

HE comes from an international background, with his father from Portuguese, British, Jamaican ancestry and an Austrian mother. In 2016, he was the Liberal Democrats' candidate for Enfield and Haringey in the London Assembly elections.

"Enfield North needs better, for the past 16 years it been a tired battle between two candidates. I will stand up for the people of Enfield North to ensure that they have a strong voice in parliament, who will stand up against Theresa May and Jeremy Corbyn's extreme version of Brexit. I want to fight to ensure that Enfield gets the school funding it desperately needs and gets the funding that our NHS, social care and mental health services so desperately need. Enfield North is such a wonderful area and I would be honoured to be your next MP, to roll my sleeves up and get stuck in."

Education is key to tackling knife crime, says Greening

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

EDUCATION Secretary Justine Greening said schools needed to tackle knife crime "early on" by delivering "the right advice at the right time" during a visit to Enfield last Friday.

She was following Home Secretary Amber Rudd to North Enfield Conservative Club, in Baker Street, on Monday last week after the borough's spate of stabbings.

Ms Greening echoed Ms Rudd's concern about educating primary school children about the dangers of knife crime and gangs.

She said there needed to be a "range of interventions" delivered in schools so that young people were aware of when to "flag up concerns".

"We have to start early to give the children the confidence to say, 'I don't think that's right. I don't want to do it,'" said Ms Greening.

She also highlighted the responsibility head teachers have in encouraging speakers and "role models" to visit schools to share personal accounts of the horrors of knife crime.

"I think for London head teachers in particular it's important to make sure they invite speakers to help keep young people safe," she said, "and make sure the prevailing wisdom among children in bringing a knife to school is not just stupid and wrong, but it could cost them their life."

Nick de Bois, the Tory prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield North, also discussed his concerns with Ms Greening.

Mr de Bois spearheaded Enfield's Law in deterring young people from carrying knives with the two-strikes-and-out legislation which was passed through parliament before he lost the seat in the 2015 general election.

He said knife prevention talks in schools were effective because they had

Early start: Justine Greening believes schools have to deliver the right advice at the right time a "lasting effect" on young people. He said, however, that some schools in the borough had been "reluctant" to hold talks and that "part of the challenge" was to promote leadership in the community to encourage more to get involved.

A public meeting organised by the Enfield NUT (National Union of Teachers) to discuss further Tory education funding cuts was postponed after the Manchester terrorist attack – but Ms Greening insisted "standards are rising" across Enfield schools with 91 rated as "good or outstanding" by Ofsted.

Despite concerns among teachers and parents about proposed cuts, she attributed the achievement to government reform with increased focus on maths and English, discipline in classrooms and a strong curriculum.

Ms Greening added that this year's budget announced an increase in investment in further education colleges and new technical qualifications known as T-levels.

"Over time it's going to transform millions of people and thousands in Enfield who have a different view other than going to university," she said.

Ryan vows to protect winter fuel allowance

CONSERVATIVE manifesto proposals to scrap winter fuel payments for pensioners and make the elderly pay for care by using the equity from their family home have been branded "disgraceful" by Labour's candidate for Enfield North Joan Ryan.

She claimed that axing the £300 winter fuel payment would see 11,800 pensioners in the constituency lose the allowance.

And she hit out at making pensioners liable to pay for care with their family home, which could potentially see them stripped of all but £100,000 of their assets.

"It's disgraceful the Conservative Party is putting the financial security of older people living in Enfield North at risk," she said.

"Means-testing the winter fuel allowance will remove financial support from thousands of our pensioners to heat their homes.

"Older people who need care may also be forced to pay for it with their family home – and the Prime Minister's U-turn on capping social care costs offers little comfort to pensioners when Theresa May has given no indication of what that cap might be."

Ms Ryan pledged that if re-elected she would campaign to protect both the winter fuel allowance and the triple lock on state pensions, as well as making sure local health services were resourced so they could provide essential care for older people.

"Our pensioners deserve a secure and dignified retirement," she added.

Flint: 'Prevention, not tougher punishments, is what is needed'

PREVENTION rather than tougher punishment is what's needed to tackle the scourge of knife crime, according to the Green Party candidate for Enfield Southgate David Flint.

He said that laws must be enforced and cuts to police manpower reversed, but claimed prevention was the key. That, he said, required community action in schools and youth clubs and families to engage with teenagers "to show them carrying a knife is a bad idea".

"The best people to carry this message are not police and teachers, but young people who have seen this at first hand," added Mr Flint.

"Next we need to restore the cuts to youth services to provide more things for young people to do – and more sense that they are valued."

But a root cause was social inequality, he claimed.

"Rates of violence are higher in more unequal societies and Britain today is a very unequal society," he said. "If we're serious about violence, we need to reduce inequality" – and claimed that the Green Party's policies offered a brighter future for young people.

Supporting the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual & Transgendered community in Enfield

A 62-YEAR-OLD remains in a "critical" condition in hospital after she and another woman pedestrian were the victims of a hit-and-run driver in Edmonton on Friday night.

The second woman, aged 32, was also badly injured, but is now described as "stable." They were crossing Bury Street at 11.15pm when they were struck by what police believe was a light coloured Mercedes estate.

Police have made a fresh appeal for witnesses to the fail-to-stop collision or for information about the identity of the driver.

"The injured women are fortunate not to have lost their lives, but sadly there is a possibility they will be left with life-changing injuries," said Detective Sergeant John Woods, of the Met Police's Serious Collision Investigation Unit.

"It is of paramount importance that the person responsible for inflicting such injuries on these women is caught immediately.

"Although this incident occurred during the night, there would have been a number of road users who would have seen the incident itself or the events leading up to it," he added. He said that the vehicle involved would have sustained significant damage to its front, bonnet and windscreen and urged anyone who might have seen or knows of a vehicle matching the description to get in contact with police.

Anyone who witnessed the collision or has information that may assist detectives is asked to the Serious Collision Investigation Unit at Chadwell Heath on 020 8597 4874 or via Twitter @MetCC

Alternatively, Crimestoppers can be contacted anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Schoolboy arrested over fatal stabbing

A 14-YEAR-OLD boy has been arrested following the fatal stabbing of Joao Gomes.

The schoolboy has been questioned and released under investigation.

Police were called to a brawl involving a number of people in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, shortly after 10.30pm on Saturday, May 13.

Officers found 18-year-old Joao suffering from stab injuries. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

A post-mortem examination gave the cause of death as a stab wound to the chest.

Two other men – aged 19 and 17 – were discovered nearby in Palmers Lane, also suffering from stab injuries.

They were taken to hospitals by the London Ambulance Service and have since been discharged.

Detectives from the Homicide and Major Crime Command continue to investigate.

Anyone who witnessed the assault or has any information that could assist the police investigation should contact the incident room on 020 8217 6582 or via Twitter @MetCC.

To give information anonymously, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 or visit crimestoppers-uk.org

Questions and answers: Campaigner Angela Bailey and Detective Superintendent Tony Kelly take part in last week's meeting at St James' Church, in Enfield Highway

Residents call for bloodshed to end

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS called for an end to the bloodshed following the spate of stabbings in Enfield at an emergency public meeting last week.

They were informed of the action being taken against knife crime by a panel of police officers and councillors who responded to their concerns at St James' Church, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, on Wednesday.

Detective Superintendent Tony Kelly, who is responsible for public protection in the borough, gave an update on the ongoing investigations into knife crime, which, he stressed, were "not all gang-related".

However, he said the most recent stabbing of a 17-year-old boy "could be gang-related". The teenager was stabbed in the upper leg and buttocks in Bush Hill Park on May 17.

"The nature of his injuries lead me to suspect it was a sign of disrespect, so it could be gang-related," explained Det Supt Kelly. "We also think he was a vulnerable person who got caught up in something."

Det Supt Kelly said that the fatal stabbing of Joao Gomes, 18, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, was not believed to be gang-related.

"We think potentially it was a robbery," he said. Others on the panel included Inspector Erica Crawshaw and Superintendent Jenny Barnett, from Enfield police.

More police needed on the streets, urges anti-knife crime campaigner

A STAUNCH campaigner against knife crime in the borough called for "more police officers" on the streets as she led protesters on a second peace march she organised on Saturday.

Mum-of-one Angela Bailey said she was "disappointed" that no more than 20 protesters turned up, compared to 80 at last week's silent Walk of Peace.

"We are still going to challenge this issue," she insisted, "so that the next generation, which is my son's age, won't have this devastating problem when they grow up."

Ms Bailey, a funeral director, who lives in Hertford Road, led the small group of protesters through Enfield Town.

In a letter to the Prime Minister Theresa May, she is calling for more officers in the borough "to make our streets safer for our children to grow up in."

A draft letter has been posted on the Facebook community page We Love Our Highway in which Ms Bailey is hoping to galvanise support

Enfield Council's cabinet member for community safety and public health Krystle Fonyonga also attended, along with mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton and the council's head of community safety Andrea Clemons.

Ms Fonyonga highlighted the need for "prevention work" and "early intervention", which, she said, was being delivered in various forms in primary and secondary schools.

"I've always been an advocate for reaching out to young people, so I've been pushing for us to go into schools," she explained.

Det Supt Kelly added that Enfield now had "red borough" status because of increasing knife crime. "Something has happened in Enfield over and above the stabbings in London," he said.

"What is worrying is there has been nearly a 100 per cent increase since last year in crimes where a knife has been used."

However, he said the London-wide knife prevention scheme Operation Sceptre had been "very successful" in the borough and Operation Bremont had resulted in 93 arrests in the first three weeks since it was launched.

He said there had been 83 weapons sweeps and teams of officers were patrolling estates with an increase in street policing and officers from the Territorial Support Group.

The police have made knife crime prevention a priority through tactics including early identification of knife offenders as well as "disrupting and prosecuting knife-carrying criminals".

and is asking residents to sign and send the letter to Downing Street.

She is calling for Mrs May to "rethink the cuts" to the number of officers on the street, implemented during her time as Home Secretary.

"She's going to have to stand up and realise something needs to be done and more officers are needed," said Ms Bailey.

She also highlighted the role that the community needed to play.

"They need to realise that this is something we can change," she said, "and that it's their children who are likely to be at risk."

Ms Bailey will be holding a meeting with actor Ross Kemp on Friday to discuss campaign work against knife crime.

"I'm hoping that with Ross' support it will help improve the campaign because of his work with gangs," she added. "If we continue our support against knife crime and campaigning, it might encourage the council to do more - but give them their due they are doing a lot."

Dancing with delight at school anniversary

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNGSTERS marked their primary school's 80th anniversary by hosting a dance festival in Edmonton last week.

Four other Edmonton schools were invited to celebrate Galliard Primary's milestone.

Thousands of children have been taught at the school since it opened in Galliard Road in 1937.

Teachers and youngsters sang traditional songs to guests, including former school pupils, on Thursday and danced merrily around a maypole on the school's playing field.

Photograph displays showcasing decades of happy memories were installed in classrooms and pupils learned about the school's history.

Two years after the school opened, World War II broke out and pupils were evacuated to Witham, in Essex, and Bicester, in Oxfordshire.

They could not return to Edmonton until an air raid shelter was built under the school's playing field.

Joining in the joyous occasion were youngsters from West Lea Specialist Sports College, in Haselbury Road, Wilbury Primary, in Wilbury Way, Fleecefield, in Brettenham Road and St Edmund's Roman Catholic Primary, in Hertford Road.

"During preparations for our 80th anniversary both staff and children have been fascinated with what they have found out about the education of a child from the 1930s to the present day," said Galliard School headteacher Penny Sullivan.

"It has been especially interesting to talk to old pupils about their experiences as so much has changed in education."

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection, was one of many guests at the party.

"I was delighted to join in with their wonderful celebrations and I wish them the best for the future," she said.

"It's difficult to appreciate what life must have been like for children in 1937 who entered school for the first time."

An open evening will be held at the school on Wednesday, July 5, starting at 4pm, and former pupils are invited to attend.

As far as our health goes, doing nothing is far worse

THE whole linked route of cycle lanes isn't complete and it may be that aspects will need adjusting, but this does not make the scheme a "shambles" ('At least have the decency to use the cycle lanes, Advertiser, May 24).

Eventually, the lanes will make the idea of cycling attractive to some who are currently put off by car traffic. Let's be realistic though, they might not even own a bike yet!

In reality, the option of doing nothing is far worse. We know that if air pollution stays at current levels it will reduce the average life expectancy of Londoners born in 2010 by up to two years.

Cars pollute and this is affecting the health of our children. Consider our young adults, too. The cost of housing is a huge concern to "generation rent" and cycling is low-cost transport compared with car ownership.

I am sure cycling will not suit everyone. I do not cycle and only my husband drives, so I rely on walking and public transport. A few years ago we chose to enter into a car share and we have learnt to assess our needs and not take car journeys for granted. We shop more locally and already I can see how the improved street environment will mean that we are more likely to linger.

Another result of increased cycling and walking would be less congestion on the roads. This would make life easier for those who have to drive.

The question raised was where are all the cyclists? My response is that maybe we should all try looking in the mirror.

First-time postal voters will miss out on June 8

BEING away on general election day, my wife, daughter and I have for the first time applied for a postal vote and recently received letters telling us that our applications had been accepted.

June 8 falls during the second week of our fortnight's absence.

We went away on May 26, the day before our postal voting forms were due to be received, the Electoral Registration office told me.

Therefore, we were not at home to get them and cast our votes, and we are probably not alone in this situation, a fortnight being a common period of absence at this time of year.

Previous postal voters will get their voting forms sooner. It is because we are first-time postal voters, apparently.

Having voted without fail in every local and national election since we were eligible – our daughter is eligible to vote for the first time – we are dismayed, and very upset, that on this occasion we cannot do so.

I realise that the Electoral Registration staff have had to organise the mechanics of the election in a very short time, but it is a pity that, but for one or two days, this situation should arise and was not foreseen.

Also, surely much effort and expense could have been saved by sending the acceptance letters and the postal voting forms in the same mailshot?

University student lands £1,000 prize

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

AN art student has won a prestigious award for her children's picture book illustration ideas as well as an opportunity to publish her work with an acclaimed author.

Isobel Evans has been named the winner of the Hachette Children's Group Carmelite Picture Book Prize, which recognises talented and inspiring undergraduates as being the next generation of illustrators.

The 22-year-old, of Morley Hill, Enfield, is in her third year at the University of Hertfordshire studying for a BA in illustration.

After three months of hard work on her university project, Isobel submitted two colour spreads and a visual plan for Free-range Freddy, written by author and artist Rachel Bright.

She was shortlisted for the prize and attended a special ceremony last month at the headquarters of Hachette publishers in London and she was "very surprised" when she was announced as the winner, describing herself as being "in a state of denial".

"I wasn't expecting to win," she said. "I asked Rachel if I really was the winner and she reassured and congratulated me."

Isobel said the book especially appealed to her because the message "resonated with her" and was quite personal after she experienced bullying as a child.

"The story is about accepting people who are different," she explained. "It's very important to teach children from a young age to be tolerant of others."

Isobel will be meeting publishers to discuss illustrating one of Rachel's children's books.

She also won a £1,000 prize, which she will be putting towards her savings for a flat and a few of her favourite comic books, which she treats herself to each month.

"It has turned out ridiculously well for me," she said. "I thought I would have had to be in the business for at least five years to be given this opportunity."

After graduating Isobel hopes to pursue a career as an illustrator in publishing.

"It has certainly helped to get my foot in the door," she added.

Baking hot!

/ ANNE-MARE SANDERSON

School gets a slice of the action with expert help

USING their loaves to learn is precisely what special needs pupils were doing as part of a week-long series of bread-themed activities at their primary school.

The 112 youngsters at Russet House, a school for children with autism in Autumn Close, Enfield, had fun last week baking their own bread, taking part in healthy sandwich-making sessions, creating sculptures and running their own shop.

The practical-based classroom sessions owed much to the involvement of baking firm Warburtons, Ponders End-based millers Wrights Flour, Thomas Ridley Foods, Enfield Catering Company and Middleton Foods.

They all donated ingredients for free as well as providing the expertise in staging the workshops as part of educational programmes for schools.

That included the arrival of a Warburtons delivery lorry with 40 bread baskets of loaves which the youngsters helped to unload before getting to sit in the driver's cab and operate the tailgate lift.

The freshly-baked loaves were provided for a pop-up bread shop run by the children and were sold to parents.

"Bread is something in which children with autism have an interest, both because their diets are limited and because of its tactile nature and I wanted to see if we could introduce some practical-based science around it," said school science co-ordinator and class teacher Graham Kilwin.

"The pupils were able to make bread without the messy kneading because Warburtons supplied sealed freezer bags in which the mix was contained – and that enabled youngsters to squeeze and mould the mixture before baking and eating the bread they had made.

"The pop-up bread shop also helped them experience handling and exchanging money as well as social skills."

And it wasn't just the students who got to knead dough and sieve flour. Parents were also involved at an evening workshop where they learned about baking, how to make cheap, bread-based meals, nutrition and gluten-free bread.

"It was a highly rewarding for pupils, parents and staff and we have to thank the generosity of all those companies who contributed to making it such a success," added Mr Kilwin.

COMPETITION/CROSSWORD

The great outdoors

WHY not make the most of warmer temperatures and longer evenings and take your exercise outside?

Fusion Lifestyle – a leading registered charity providing quality sport, leisure and fitness activities to local communities, in partnership with Enfield and Haringey councils – has created a programme of outdoor classes for all the family, from Buggy Bootcamps and running clubs, to INTENCITY Bootcamps and outdoor group exercise classes.

We've teamed up with Fusion to offer two lucky winners the chance to win a course of five INTENCITY Bootcamps at Southbury Leisure Centre, in Enfield, or New River Sport & Fitness, in Wood Green.

Fusion's own INTENCITY fitness concept is heading outside for the first time ever with fun group Bootcamps, getting heart rates racing.

Two different outdoor INTENCITY sessions are on offer. They are: INTENCITY CARDIO & ABS – combining HIIT cardio activity with core conditioning. INTENCITY MAX – a full mix of bodyweight exercises and dynamic movement training, using kit including kettlebells, tyres, battle ropes and training hammers.

Darren Anderson, of Fusion said: "INTENCITY is specifically designed to get you working anaerobically, burning more calories and fat even after you have finished exercising. Exercising in sociable group Bootcamps in the fresh air helps to add variety to your workout, keeping you engaged and achieving the same great results."

Classes are 45 minutes long and are free for current members or cost £10 per class for non-members.

A trial session is available for free at www.gofusion.club/trial

For your chance to win, answer the following question:

● What is the name of Fusion's fitness concept that's heading outside this summer? a) Intensity b) Insanity c) Inactivity?

● Send answers, with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to: Bootcamps Competition, North London & Essex News Ltd, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Bootcamps" in the subject line, by noon on June 1. Please state your choice of Southbury Leisure Centre or New River Sports & Fitness.

Small wonder

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

WITH her diminutive stature, lilting Scots brogue and dapper three-piece suits, comedian Susan Calman is instantly recognisable from her TV appearances on panel shows including Mock The Week, 8 Out Of 10 Cats, QI and Would I Lie To You.

During her 10-year comedy career, her shows have contained hilarious anecdotes and confessional tales about being gay and Scottish, suffering a nervous breakdown as she adjusted to her new-found celebrity and being just 4ft 11ins tall.

They have convinced most people that they know all about the cat-loving stand-up comic and who she really is.

But in her new show, Calman Before The Storm, which she brings to artsdepot, in Finchley, on Saturday, the 42-year-old challenges all those presumptions.

She also sets the record straight about her political stance, her height, her nationality and her sexuality.

And she's not as mild-mannered and polite as the "Radio 4 favourite" tag given to her suggests.

After all, before turning to stand-up she was a corporate lawyer in the dog-eat-dog world of big business and during her training spent a year in the United States working with inmates on death row as well as in Geneva with the United Nations.

"I loved the law and found it fascinating, but the reality of being a lawyer is far less exciting," she explained.

"Lots of late-night reading and conference calls. I felt suddenly frustrated by the confines of being in a suit."

She gave up the job and says she went from earning a great salary to nothing.

"I made £450 in the first year, the next year I made maybe £600" she recalls.

In Calman Before The Storm, she tells us she has taken up boxing and, in her typically chirpy, affable style, takes a swipe at an array of targets, presenting conclusive evidence she is not what people think she is.

PrimeTimefilm review*WONDER WOMAN
(12A, 141 mins)

A GRAVITY-defying girl with bullet-proof bracelets just wants to have fun in director Patty Jenkins' muscular introduction to the DC Comics warrior princess.

HIGH EXPECTATIONS:
Gal Gadot as Wonder Woman

Unfortunately, the not-so-fair sex gatecrashes the party, inspiring the heroine's mother to warn: "Be careful in the world of men. They don't deserve you!"

It's debatable whether any of us 'deserve' this flashy and sporadically entertaining origin story.

Scripted by Allan Heinberg, Wonder Woman unfolds largely in flashback during the First World War and employs a framing device that dovetails neatly with lead star Gal Gadot's appearance in last summer's superhero smack-down, Batman V Superman: Dawn Of Justice.

Her eye-catching splash in that lumbering picture heightened expectations of an adrenaline-pumping demonstration of girl power here, behind and in front of the camera.

Disappointingly, Wonder Woman turns out to be another expensive exercise in high-tempo homogeneity, indistinguishable from other Marvel and DC Comics cash cows during the protracted special effects sequences.

Frenetic editing and a bombastic score by Rupert Gregson-Williams give a false impression of dramatic momentum but Jenkins' film sags, and knowing the title character emerges unscathed from the melee leaves us plenty of time to identify supporting cast, who are destined to shift their mortal coils.

Diana (Gadot) is an Amazonian princess, who lives on the island of Themyscira under the benevolent rule of her mother, Queen Hippolyta (Connie Nielsen).

"Fighting does not make you a hero," the monarch reminds her impetuous daughter, who is tutored in hand-to-hand combat by her grizzled aunt (Robin Wright).

Handsome US Army spy Steve Trevor (Chris Pine) crash-lands in the sea close to the island and Diana rescues him from a watery grave.

He tells the Amazons about the conflict with the Germans, whose forces are marshalled by iron-fisted General Erich Ludendorff (Danny Huston).

Horrified by mankind's self-destruction, Diana prepares to leave her island, armed with magical artefacts including a fiery lasso.

She bids tearful farewell to her clan and travels to London, where Steve introduces Diana to his plucky secretary Etta (Lucy Davis) and two shady associates: con man Sameer (Said Taghmaoui) and hard-drinking sniper Charlie (Ewen Bremner).

Together, they head to the front to rendezvous with trader Chief (Eugene Brave Rock) and wreak havoc on General Ludendorff and his mad scientist, Doctor Maru (Elena Anaya).

Wonder Woman delivers a full arsenal of slam-bang thrills including acrobatic fight sequences and a hellish sprint through no man's land with terrified soldiers.

Gadot is positively luminous but the simplistic script doesn't test her acting mettle and she struggles to scrape off syrup from the film's central assertion that love alone can defeat war.

Pine fans the flames of a romantic subplot with a twinkle in his blue eyes but his gung-ho airman is considerably more enamoured with Wonder Woman than us.

Exclusive new townhouses now on sale at Hertford Gate

There's a select collection of high-quality properties now on sale at Taylor Wimpey's Hertford Gate development in Hertford.

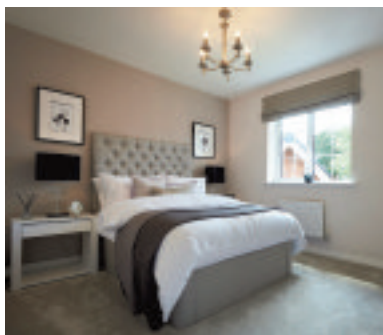

These exceptional four-bedroom townhouses enjoy a well-connected location off Ware Road, and all benefit from a carefully-planned layout offering versatile living space across three floors that's ideal for contemporary lifestyles.

Priced from £529,950, the four-bedroom townhouses at Hertford Gate each feature a beautiful open-plan kitchen/dining room with double doors leading to the private rear garden, a first-floor living room with Juliet balcony overlooking the garden, a luxurious en-suite master bedroom and an integral garage.

Hertford town centre, less than two miles away, offers a choice of supermarkets, independent shops and boutiques, as well as a historic castle and gatehouse dating back to 1463. Hertford Theatre and Corn Exchange host entertainment including comedy and art exhibitions, while there are plenty of pubs, clubs and restaurants.

For commuters, quick access to both the A10 and A414 puts Hatfield to the west and Harlow to the east within easy reach, while the A1, M1, M25 and M11 are all nearby and Stansted Airport is just over 20 miles from home. Hertford East and Ware railway stations provide links to London Liverpool Street, while Hertford North has direct services to London Moorgate.

The new homes are being sold from Lanes New Homes located at 2 Market Street, Hertford, SG14 1BD, or email salesherts@lanesnewhomes.co.uk. The Sales Executive can be contacted by phone on 01992 668035. More information is available at www.taylorwimpey.co.uk.

Please note that these are 'typical Taylor Wimpey interiors' and have not been taken at the Hertford Gate development.

Aggressive and purposeful

By Darren Cassey

CALL this the entry-level version of the GTC4Lusso and you'll upset some very proud Italian engineers.

Ferrari's shooting brake now come with the brand's turbocharged V8 – hence the 'T' in the name – and circa £30,000 lopped off the asking price, but there's a lot more to it than simply offering an alternative to the naturally aspirated V12.

I'm assured that so much love and attention goes into everything the Italian carmaker does that it considers this a wholly different car – the "sixth product" in its line-up, to be precise.

The engine, which we're familiar with from the 488 GTB supercar, has been given new pistons and a new intercooler design, while the exhaust system has been reworked to reduce pressure.

On the face of it, the smaller engine is better suited than the V12 to GT car duties because it'll go about 30 per cent longer between fuel stops.

The 10.25-inch high-definition touchscreen, introduced with the V12 model, works like a tablet and is excellent, while the passenger's screen gets new features including the ability to add navigation waypoints and take control of the music.

The GTC4Lusso is loosely based on its forebear, the FF. Only the chassis and some of the cabin shape have been retained, the rest is redesigned.

An engineer told us he would guess it's "about 70 per cent new", with a lot of the changes to the exterior coming from improving aerodynamic performance and modernising the styling.

Inside, comfort is almost excellent. The seat design is clearly geared towards being sporty – a very good thing when you're going great guns, but mile-munching isn't quite as luxurious as it could be.

Before the FF and then the GTC4Lusso, Ferrari owners who wanted to take a weekend away with the family had to buy a second car or send Jeeves ahead with the luggage.

Perhaps the only negative space-wise is within the cabin. For front passengers there's more than enough room, but six-foot-plus passengers in the back will suffer slightly as legroom isn't brilliant, while the low roof could get a little claustrophobic.

Lift the imposing bonnet and a 3.9-litre V8 can be seen tucked deep within the engine bay – behind the front axle to aid weight distribution. It almost looks a little lost in a bay designed to hold the 6.3-litre V12, but it's far from lacking theatre.

Performance is suitably ballistic. Considering the GTC4Lusso T is designed with long-distance cruising in mind, with 602bhp and 760Nm of torque – less power than the V12, but more torque – there's more than enough performance to pin you to the back of your seat should you desire.

The engine doesn't quite sing like

Ferraris of old, but there's a deep, gravelly tone that gives the car an aggressive, purposeful demeanour.

In Ferrari's 488 GTB supercar, the power delivery feels like a drop kick to the back, but here that monstrous torque comes in with a surge. That's because Ferrari manages the boost levels so that they increase as revs rise – it's more becoming of a car with everyday sensibilities in mind.

The roads heading south from Pisa on Italy's west coast were a true test of the GTC4Lusso T's ride – after an hour on cruise control I vowed never to complain about Britain's broken road network ever again.

However, it was useful because it tested the car's livability – there's no getting away from the fact it doesn't quite iron out crumbled surfaces as a Bentley can, although it performed well for the most part. It's the trade-off for being arrow-sharp in the corners, so choosing between rivals will come down to needs and wants.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Some of the conditions are: 1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980. 2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'ITV' etc. in the advertisement. 3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of: (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement; (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser. 4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed. 5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage. 6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication. 7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances. 8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority. 9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears. 10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order. 11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions. 12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company. 13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer. (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984. 14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability. 15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date. 16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher. 17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request. 18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent. Box Numbers Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities. Holiday & Travel Category All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted. Data Protection The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes. Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Dear Susan

We knew you'd like to see this article in The Advertiser about your old school and a reunion they are planning.

Although you're far away did you know you can view the newspaper online via the digital edition at any time of the week?

There are often articles about the very area you grew up in and people you may know.

We can keep sending the paper to you but this seems such a simple and convenient way to stay in touch with all the news from where you grew up.

Love to all, Mum xxx

Impressive display seals a big victory

NORTH MIDDLESEX produced an impressive all-round display to secure a 92-run win at home to Shepherds Bush in the Premier Division of the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League on Saturday.

Batting first, Joe Cracknell (86) and Will Vanderspar (53) got the hosts off to an excellent start by adding 143 for the first wicket and a late surge from Charlie MacLeod (31 not out) and Liam O'Driscoll (30 not out off 15 balls) took them up to 290-5.

Jack Brydon (110) made a superb century for Shepherds Bush in reply, but O'Driscoll (4-33) sparked a middle order collapse which ended any doubt over the result and the visitors were eventually dismissed for 198.

Meanwhile, second division action saw victories for Highgate and North London, but Hornsey's difficult start to the season continued as they were beaten again.

James Alder made 114 as Barnes posted a total of 258-6 at Highgate, but William Bowley's 73 helped the hosts to edge to 259-8 in reply.

North London were involved in an even tighter finish as they won by just one wicket at home to Eastcote.

James Fell (3-34) did well with the ball as the hosts made 173-9 batting first, but North London also found runs hard to come by before James Battcock and Freddie Issitt joined forces to guide them to 174-9 with two balls to spare.

But Hornsey remain rooted to the foot of the table following their six-wicket defeat at home to Osterley.

A proud moment: Kieran Trippier has been named in England's squad for the first time

Pochettino thrilled by fans' reception

MAURICIO POCHETTINO has hailed the reception that Tottenham Hotspur have received on their post-season trip to Hong Kong.

Spurs headed off to the Far East following the climax of the Premier League campaign to play a friendly against Hong Kong champions Kitchee, winning 4-1 courtesy of goals from Son Heung-Min, Vincent Janssen, Harry Kane and Kazaiah Sterling.

And manager Pochettino claims that the warmth of the fans is something which no-one who was on the trip will ever forget.

"It was incredible for ourselves and the players to be able to share this trip to Hong Kong," he said. "It was such an excellent way to end the season with that fantastic atmosphere at the game."

"That was a special time to share with our fans. The fans are amazing and I thank them for all their support and their warmth. It is something we will all remember forever. It has been a great few days that we've all enjoyed. We were made to feel so welcome and we'll always be grateful."

"The most important thing was to share this time with all our fans and to try to enjoy the game – to be honest the result wasn't important."

"What was important was all our fans in Hong Kong enjoyed watching the team and this was a fantastic moment we've had here."

Pochettino added: "Of course we're professional and we always show respect to the opponent, that's important. But then the most important thing is the image we translate to our fans because that is something they can keep forever. The fans are amazing and we thank them all for their support."

KIERAN'S DELIGHT

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

KIERAN TRIPPIER admitted that he was lost for words after finding out that he had been called into the senior England squad for the first time.

Trippier is one of five Tottenham Hotspur players who have been named in the squad for the forthcoming World Cup qualifier against Scotland and friendly against France, and will resume his club battle with Kyle Walker for the right-back spot in the team.

"It's not really sunk in yet," he said. "I'm honoured to be called up for England, obviously with my team-mates as well."

"I'm delighted and I'm looking forward to meeting up with the team. I'm lost for words really. It's going to be great just to be part of it and it should be a great experience with all the players I'm going to be with."

"It's been a good second half of the season, I've got regular football under my belt and every time I play I always do my best. I'm really honoured and proud to be called up and recognised."

"I've been watching England since I was a young boy and it's always been my dream to be a professional footballer first of all and to play for such a big club like Tottenham."

Trippier added: "Since I've come to Spurs I think I've developed as a player and I'd like to say thanks to the staff for how they've worked me into shape to enable me to be playing good football."

"Mauricio [Spurs boss Pochettino] is a great manager, I love playing for him and he's developed my game a lot in the two years I've been here. It's all falling into place – playing more games, playing in the Champions League and now getting called up for England. It's a dream and a big achievement for myself, one of the best of my career."

Eric Dier, Dele Alli and Harry Kane are also in the squad, with Kane expected to spearhead England's attack in both games following his fantastic end to the season – which saw him score seven times in the last two Premier League matches to win the golden boot for a second successive year.

And Trippier is full of praise for the exploits of his club colleague, revealing that he is not surprised to have seen him do so well.

He said: "When I first came to the club I knew what he was about and it's well deserved when you look at how hard he works at the training ground."

"After training he stays behind, doing shooting practice all the time. He fully deserves the golden boot and hopefully he'll get a third one next season."

YOUR CHOICE AT THIS ELECTION

STRONG, STABLE LEADERSHIP IN THE NATIONAL INTEREST

OR

A COALITION OF CHAOS WITH JEREMY CORBYN

SECURE STRONG LEADERSHIP, CERTAINTY AND STABILITY

Only Theresa May can provide the strong and stable leadership our country needs to see us through Brexit and beyond.

STRONGER ECONOMY

The deficit has been cut by almost two thirds and our economy is growing, so we can put more funds in schools and the NHS.

MORE JOBS

Employment is up by 2.9 million since 2010 - meaning over 1,000 jobs have been created on average every day.

LOWER TAXES

We have cut income tax for over 26 million people, saving the average tax payer £825 a year, since April 2015.

SECURING THE BEST BREXIT DEAL

Just 11 days after election day, the EU want to start Brexit negotiations with Britain. Only Theresa May has a plan for Brexit and the ability to deliver.

A COALITION OF CHAOS

Jeremy Corbyn as Prime Minister would be a shambles - a weak and unstable coalition between Labour, SNP and the Lib Dems.

WEAKER ECONOMY

Corbyn would run the economy into the ground again and leave us with higher debt, and unable to fund schools and the NHS.

LESS JOBS

Corbyn wants to hit businesses with higher taxes making it harder to take people on, and we would pay the price with fewer jobs.

HIGHER TAXES

There is a £58 billion black hole in Corbyn's manifesto - paid for by every single family in the UK, with higher taxes and more debt.

RISK A BAD BREXIT DEAL

A weak, nonsensical Corbyn struggles to lead his own party, let alone lead the Brexit negotiations for Britain. He would put the nation's security at risk.

Rt. Hon Theresa May with David Burrowes

Our Plan for a Stronger Britain

With a strong hand in Brexit negotiations, Theresa May can guarantee our economic security and deliver the plan that will:

- Secure the best deal from Brexit to control our laws, borders and money.
- Strike new trade deals for our goods and services with new friends and old partners around the world.
- Back those who want to work hard, by helping businesses create more and better paid jobs – with new rights and protections for workers.
- Help more people have a home of their own by building more affordable houses.
- Tackle the cost of living by capping rip-off energy tariffs and keeping taxes low.
- Make sure every child gets the best start in life by increasing school funding every year, and provide real technical education for young people.
- Increase the NHS's budget every year to ensure every family has the care they need, and we can pay for and provide care for the elderly.
- Provide security for children online and ensure our personal data is protected in the digital age.

So let's back Theresa May and her team on 8 June – it will give her the strongest possible hand in the Brexit negotiations, and deliver her Plan for a Stronger Britain for you and your family.

Working Together Against Knife Crime

David Burrowes has been a long standing campaigner against knife crime. In 2010 and 2013, following incidents of knife crime in Enfield, David teamed up with Nick de Bois to toughen knife crime laws in Parliament. With knife crime on the rise again, last month they both wrote to the Prime Minister calling for more action. The Prime Minister has said 'we will act wherever necessary to reduce violence and keep our communities safe.'

Following the knife fatalities in Enfield this month, the Home Secretary has visited Enfield to meet the Borough Commander and victims of knife crime, where she set out a plan for strengthening the police response and tackling the underlying causes of knife crime on our streets.

Local Conservatives have called for judges to enforce 'Enfield's Law', meaning those caught carrying a knife should automatically go to jail. More knife offenders are now going to jail as a result of Enfield's Law, but more still needs to be done, with recent figures showing almost 40% of offenders are still avoiding a jail term. David has launched a petition of Enfield residents to ensure the Law is enforced.

David said, "Yet again we are witnessing a disturbing growth in the culture of carrying knives, particularly amongst teenagers and children. It is shocking that judges are still refusing to send repeat offenders to jail, despite Enfield's Law."

"This is a serious issue across Enfield. It is regrettable that Enfield's Law, that we worked hard to get passed in Parliament, is not being fully enforced. If elected on 8th June making our communities safer and tackling knife crime will be our priority."

More Money for Enfield Schools Secured

David Burrowes and Gönül Daniels, as parents and School Governors, have been campaigning for many years for more choice and funding of Enfield schools.

In Parliament, David has led cross-party delegations to Ministers and spoken up in debates, pressing for more funds for schools. Local parents and teachers have joined the campaign and the Conservative Party has listened and confirmed in its manifesto that:

- A Conservative Government will make school funding fairer, whilst guaranteeing that no school has its budget cut.
- The schools budget will receive £4 billion extra funding by 2022.
- Schools in England will offer a free breakfast to every child in every year of primary school, and a free school lunch for children from poorer families.

David said "there were serious concerns that the consultation about fairer funding for schools would have left many schools in Enfield under funded.

I am delighted that the Prime Minister has listened to our campaign and guaranteed that no schools will have less cash after the funding changes. I am also pleased that there will be £1 billion a year extra funds in the schools' core budget to tackle cost pressures."

Gönül Daniels is Chair of Ashmole Primary School and has successfully campaigned alongside David Burrowes for a new Free School in Southgate. She added "I am passionate about securing a good education for children. Education standards have never been higher, with 9 out of 10 schools 'good' or 'outstanding', which is up from 2 out of 3 in 2010. Only the Conservative Government can ensure we have a strong economy which will deliver more money and more choice of good schools."

News in Brief

Cycle Enfield Risks High Street

Enfield's Labour Council's cycle scheme is under construction along the A105, causing severe congestion and pollution and affecting local businesses. David Burrowes has called on the Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, to halt the implementation of the A105 cycle lanes. His referendum last year showed there is significant opposition to the scheme. Concerns from the high street shops, post offices and GP surgeries have all been ignored by the Council. David said "These cycle lanes risk the safety of vulnerable road users. It's time to review the scheme's safety."
